Supervision Models* - in 150 words or less explain what type of supervision models you use	I seek to provide a reflective model of supervision as well as coaching and mentoring as needed. Reflective supervision encourages reflection on personal experience, events or issues that the supervisee wishes to discuss, goes through a process to determine possible ways forward, and helps to highlight specific learning or additional issues which may need discussion. I know that supervision can be a space for supervisees to speak freely and I support them to process the issues which they bring.
